

Social Networking and Technology

Connecting teenagers with the world

Mobile Phones

- A general use of communication through phone calls or texting.
- Can also be a way to access the internet and social networking sites.

Keeping safe...

- Only give out your number to friends, not 'potential friends'.

If you are being bullied...

- Contact your phone company too see if you are able to block numbers.

MSN Messenger

- The function of msn messenger is to give internet users the opportunity to have conversations with people over the internet.
- It works by creating an account and adding your friends accounts to your friend list. When you or your friends are on-line you are able to talk to them, as shown here.

If you are being bullied....

- Save a copy of the conversation as EVIDENCE. Time and date should also be recorded.
- Block the person bullying you.

- When you block someone they can no longer see you online and cannot talk to you.
- You cannot initiate a conversation with that person until you unblock them.

- If you fear that the person is bullying others or you feel more action should be taken, click on the 'help menu' and select 'report abuse' option. (EVIDENCE will be needed).

If someone has hacked into your account...

- Change the password and make it more complex and less 'you'.
- If password changed by hacker, MSN's support team will need to be contacted in order to delete the account manually.
- Tell friends and family that someone is using your account and to block you from their contact list.

Facebook

- Facebook is a social networking website, where you create a profile and request for people to be your friends.
- You can add photos, comment on your friends 'wall', play games, do quizzes and join groups.

Blocking people

Block People

If you block someone, they will not be able to find you in a Facebook search, see your profile, or interact with you through Facebook channels (such as Wall posts, Poke, etc.). Any Facebook ties you currently have with a person you block will be broken (for example, friendship connections, Relationship Status, etc.). Note that blocking someone may not prevent all communications and interactions in third-party applications, and does not extend to elsewhere on the Internet.

Block Email

If you cannot find someone to block you can block an email address. We will block any account associated with this email address currently or at any time in the future.

Block List

You have not added anyone to your Block list.

A large green "OK" stamp is overlaid on the form, indicating that the information is correct.A screenshot of the "Basic Information" section of a Facebook profile edit form, showing the "Contact Information" section. The form includes fields for "Emails", "IM Screen Name", "Mobile Phone", "Land Phone", "Address", "City/Town", "Neighborhood", "Zip", and "Website". A large red "X" is drawn over the entire form, indicating that this information should be reviewed or corrected.

If being bullied....

- Block the person. (Seen before)
- Remove person from friend list.

Go to your friend list and click on the X to remove contact with person.

- Save copies of any comments left on walls by using print screen and saving as image (Print screen is on keyboard).

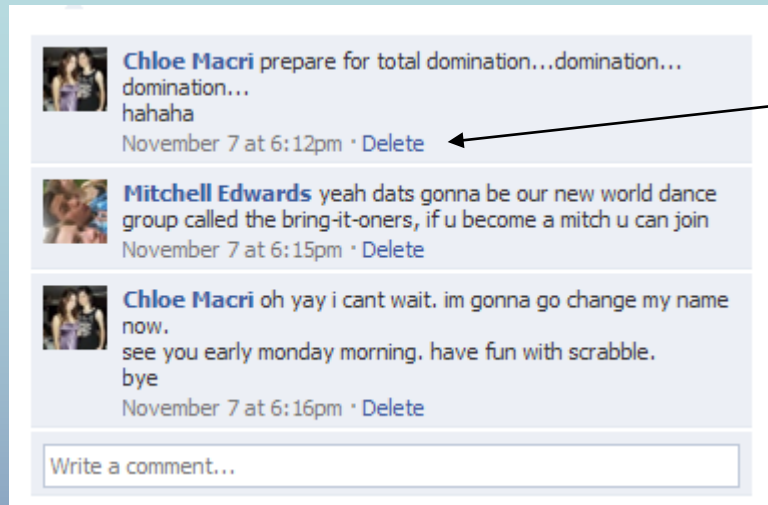

- Any unauthorised tagged pictures of you can be removed through 'remove tag option'.

Click on the tagged photo and press remove tag option under photo text to your name

- Only accept friends who you know.
- Do not give out personal information through comments or any other parts of your public profile. Avoid using MySpace for giving out party invites etc.

If being bullied...

- Save EVIDENCE of bullying by using print-screen. This can then be reported to MySpace Australia by clicking on report abuse.
- Block the person and delete from friend list

- Delete any comments and/or photos after saving them.

Other Tips

- To keep safe, do not poke the bear!! Bullying could stem from you posting comments or pictures that provoke the bullying.
- Save evidence and use it responsibly. DO NOT use any evidence for blackmail, only use it for the benefit of your safety.

Summary

- Encourage your children to safely use and enjoy socializing in the online world.
- Ensure all computers are in public areas at home.
- Ensure your children understand all material uploaded remains in cyber space (Digital Footprint).
- Be informed parents – learn about the technology and sites your children use / visit.

- Family “Disconnect Time”.
- Use technology in the ways that suit your family.
- If a problem emerges, don’t remove the technology – set other limits.
- If you have concerns, contact the College, we will assist wherever possible and / or direct you to alternative help.
